

Authors' Biographies

---

Aliyeva, Liliya is a Research Assistant at the Social Policy Research Centre based at Middlesex University School of Law. She studied International Politics at Middlesex University and recently completed an LLM programme with distinction at the same university. Her particular interest is in post-USSR and Eastern European countries with a specific focus on human rights and minority rights. She also worked at the European Human Rights Advocacy Centre as an intern on serious human rights violations in former Soviet states.

Andor, László is Head of Department of Economic Policy at Corvinus University (Budapest), Senior Fellow at Hertie School of Governance (Berlin) and Visiting Professor at ULB (Brussels). He served as EU Commissioner for Employment, Social Affairs and Inclusion from 2010-2014. Between 2005 and 2010 he was a member of the board of directors at the European Bank for Reconstruction and Development, representing Hungary, the Czech Republic, the Slovak Republic, and Croatia. In 1997/8 he was Visiting Fulbright Scholar at Rutgers University (USA). Since 1998 he has been Trustee of the European Studies Foundation in Budapest. In 2015 he joined the RAND Europe council of advisors.

Böröcz, József (Dr.Sc.,PhD) is Professor of Sociology at Rutgers, The State University of New Jersey, a member of the Social Communications PhD-program and a founder of the Karl Polányi Centre for Global Social Research at Corvinus University in Budapest. Author, most recently, of the award winning The European Union and Global Social Change: A Critical Geopolitical-Economic Analysis (Routledge UK, 2009, forthcoming in Hungarian in 2016) as well as more than 75 articles on historical sociology, large-scale social change, global geopolitics, power and inequalities, histories of socialisms, borders, labour and leisure flows, and representations. <http://borocz.net>, <http://rutgers.academia.edu/jborocz>.

Brisku, Adrian is Associate Professor of Comparative History at Ilia State University in Tbilisi, Georgia, and Lecturer at the Institute of International Studies at Charles University in Prague. He is the author of Bittersweet Europe: Albanian and Georgian Discourses on Europe, 1878-2008 (New York, Oxford: Berghahn Books, 2013). His current book project titled Political Reform in the Ottoman and Russian Empires: A Comparison is forthcoming with Bloomsbury Academic. He received his PhD from the European University Institute in 2010.

Hann, Chris is Chair of the Max-Planck-Institute of Social Anthropology in Halle. His university education was at Oxford (BA 1974 in Politics, Philosophy and Economics) and Cambridge (PhD, Social Anthropology, 1979). His main interests date back to his undergraduate days and his first fieldwork projects in rural Hungary and Poland. His work on religion derives primarily from his encounter with the Greek Catholic minority in Poland, an interest that has recently expanded to eastern Christians in general. Since 2006 he has resumed fieldwork in Xinjiang and plays an active role in focus group research investigating social support and kinship (together with Dr. Ildikó Bellér-Hann of Copenhagen University). In 2013 he was awarded a grant by the European Research Council, Realising Eurasia: Civilisation and Moral Economy in the 21st Century. The concept of Eurasia, a frame for all research in the Department, has become increasingly important in his engagement with contemporary economic and political crises in Europe.

Authors' Biographies

---

Melegh, Attila is a sociologist, economist and historian. He has taught in the United States, Russia, Georgia and Hungary. He is Associate Professor at Corvinus University, Budapest, and a Senior Researcher at the Demographic Research Institute. His research focuses on the global history of social change in the 20th century, and international migration. He is the author of three books and more than a hundred scholarly publications. On the East-West Slope. Globalization, nationalism, racism and discourses on Central and Eastern Europe was published by Central European University Press in 2006. He is the founding director of the Karl Polányi Research Center at Corvinus University, and also president of the European Network in Universal and Global History

Lengyel, György is economic sociologist at the Corvinus University of Budapest. He established the Economic Sociology Research Network of the ESA with Richard Swedberg. His research interests lie mostly in elites, entrepreneurs, economic actors and institutions. Among his recent publications are Elites in hard times (Comparative Sociology, 2014); The 'small transformation' in Hungary (with D. Bank, in: K. Blum-B.Martens-V.Trapman eds., Business Leaders and New Varieties of Capitalism in Post-Communist Europe. Routledge, 2014.) and Europe of Elites (ed. with H. Best and L. Verzichelli, Oxford U.P., 2012). See more on these in https://www.researchgate.net/profile/Lengyel\_Gyoergy/ and <http://www.uni-corvinus.hu/lengyelgyorgy>

Rakovics, Márton is an Assistant Lecturer at the Department of Statistics, Faculty of Social Sciences, Eötvös Loránd University, and a PhD student at the Doctoral School of Sociology, Corvinus University Budapest. He holds an MSc in Survey statistics from Eötvös Loránd University. His main area of research is statistical modelling of dynamic systems.

Scheiring, Gabor. After graduating from Corvinus University and the Central European University (both in Budapest, Hungary) as a sociologist and an economist he was affiliated with the Institute for Political Science at the Hungarian Academy of Sciences. Concurrently he was a nationally and internationally active member of green and global justice movements. His doctoral research at the University of Cambridge investigates the impact of unemployment and economic restructuring in Eastern Europe on workers' health and the collusion of class and citizenship in the everyday experience of economic injustice. Gábor Scheiring has edited Globalization and Development: Critical Development Studies Reader (Budapest, Új Mandátum, 2011), Ecology and Politics: Green Political Theory Reader (Budapest, L'Harmattan) and co-edited Economize Wisely! The Politics of Privatization and Public Services (with Zsolt Boda, Budapest, Új Mandátum, 2008) and published further journal articles and book chapters.

Authors' Biographies

---

Szelényi, Iván is Emeritus Professor at NYU Abu Dhabi, a member of the Hungarian Academy of Sciences, and also William Graham Sumner Professor of Sociology and Political Science at Yale University. He has also served as the University's sociology department Chair and director of the Center for Comparative Research. Prior to his tenure at Yale, Szelényi was Chair of the sociology department and director of the Center for Comparative Social Analysis at the University of California, Los Angeles. Szelényi is interested in social inequalities, studying the interplay of ethnicity, gender and socioeconomics in transitional and post-communist societies. In 2005 he won the Hungarian Sociology Association's Karl Polanyi Prize for the best publication of the year with his book Patterns of Exclusion, and in 2006 the President of the Hungarian Republic awarded him the Széchenyi Prize recognizing his outstanding contributions to academic life. His works have been published in numerous international journals, including the American Journal of Sociology, American Sociological Review, Handbook of Economic Sociology, Annual Review of Sociology and Theory and Society. He is an elected fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences and has served as the vice president of the American Sociological Association and executive director of the Society for Comparative Social Research.